especially in Mexico while most critics of so called narcoculture have either focused on an aesthetic sobriety in these works or discounted them altogether as exploitative and unworthy of serious attention. Drugs violence and Latin America illuminates how such work may reflect and intervene in global networks of intoxication theorizing a dialectics of intoxication that illustrates how psychotropy may either solidify or destabilize the self and its relationship to the other. It proposes that these tendencies influence human behavior in distinct ways and are leveraged for social control within both licit and illicit economies. A consideration of a countercultural genealogy in Latin America provides a contrastive psychotropic context for contemporary novels that exposes links between narco violence and consumerism challenging our addictions of thought and feeling about ourselves and our relationships to drugs and narco violence. Joseph Patteson PhD University of Wisconsin Madison USA is assistant professor at Augustana University USA. He researches narco violence in Mexico placed within an interdisciplinary global framework that highlights the interpenetration of cultural production and the problem of psychotropy. His work has appeared in Revista Canadiense de Estudios Hispánicos and Contracorriente.
